WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 14, 1858.

Republican

There will be a meeting of the National Republican electors of this city at the STATE HOUSE, on Wednesday Evening, at 8 o'clock, for the nomination of State Senator, to be voted for, on Friday, for the election of a city Executive Committee for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may come before them. By order of the American Executive Committee.

TO THE ELECTORS.

It is true, that but a small portion of the qualified electors, ever attend "primary meetings," and often take occasion to grumble at their action, when had they been present, such action might have been overtaken.

The Republican electors are called together to-night, and we hope they will all attend. It is possible that the expediency of city nominations may be broached and every man who is interested should be present.

If we nominate a good man for Senator, he can be elected, will you try?

Draft of Col. Benton.

The decease of Ex-Senator Thomas H. Benton, of Missouri, which took place at Washington on Saturday morning, will have caused a profound sensation throughout the country. Col. B. was a man of rare talent, indomitable energy, and persevering industry for the accomplishment of whatever task he undertook. A native of North Carolina, he migrated to Missouri, about forty years ago; and from that date he has been prominently identified with the political history of the nation.

Col. B. was the last of that famous Senatorial band, so illustrious for their talents and eloquence, of whom Clay, Calhoun and Webster were the others. These men, intellectually measured, were each a head and shoulders taller than any of their associates, during the long period of their respective service in the U. S. Senate. Col. B. was a champion of hard money currency, and no friend to banking institutions. He had attained his 76th year, and will be best known to posterity by his "Thirty years in the U. S. Senate;" though he was engaged in his last days in compiling the debates in Congress, which he had brought down to the year 1850. Always a strong Democratic champion, he had for the last few years felt impelled to set party triumphs at defiance.

LOCAL NEWS.

Pictorial Excursion.

We notice in the New York Journal of Commerce of the 12th, that William H. Bliss, Esq., sailed for Charleston, S. C., in the steamship Nashville. The absence of that gentleman from the city is, we presume, for the purpose of thoroughly examining the waters of the various streams in the southern section of our country, and from the devoted interest that Mr. Bliss takes in fishing, we may anticipate valuable and desirable information on his return, and also great acquisitions to our rivers and ponds that are to be stocked with fish agreeable to a vote of our Legislature, whereby $200 were appropriated for that purpose.

We regret that we are again obliged to apologize to our readers for the non-appearance of "Margaret Dudley." The other provocations of the author requiring his presence in a distant part of the country, have prevented him from supplying us with the manuscript so promptly and regularly as we could have wished.

In the course of a week or two, however, we can promise to resume its publication, and continue it without further interruption to the close.

Mr. James T. Hazard, of this city, showed us yesterday one of the finest specimens of a lamb, which we have ever seen slaughtered. It was raised in Portsmouth, by Amanda Gould, and was one of a pair of twins. Mr. H. informs us that the weight of this animal is 92 1-2 lbs. dressed, although it was only ten months old at the time of its slaughter.

We are indebted to the AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY for a pamphlet published by that society, containing the "Minutes" adopted on the 18th of March, 1858, by the publishing committee of that society, explanatory of their position in relation to the report and resolutions of the committee of fifteen, as sanctioned at the anniversary of 1857, and the act of the executive committee adopting such mitigate." The above work will be found interesting to those of our readers who are acquainted with the former action of the society on various important subjects, and we recommend its perusal by those who can procure it, and are sorry that our limited space prevents us from placing a part of its contents before our readers.

The New Cliffor.—This little gem of a book, which is now supplying the place of the Perry, has been thoroughly overhauled in her hull and machinery the past winter, and very much improved in every particular, making 14 miles per hour with ease. We can it is the intention of the Morgan her owner to run her as an excursion boat in our waters the coming summer.

CORRESPONDENCE.

NEW YORK, April 21, 1858.

Mr. Editor.—It has fallen to my lot, occasionally, to say some things to your readers about one, and another of the New York journals, more especially in reference to one rather widely known as the "Satanic Press," whose diabolism is indeed sufficiently manifest, but it might prove far more mischievous to society, were it not for the monstrous accompaniments of ignorance and vulgarity, which operate to disgust and drive off, a good many readers who might be otherwise deeply injured.

I propose now to speak of another journal—one of a radically different tone and character—a journal of marked and acknowledged ability, and which is exerting an inestimable influence in favor of the Free and the Right.—I refer to the N. Y. Tribune.—That there re enmities and prejudices to some extent prevailing against the Tribune, I am well aware—but rods which have been engendered and fostered by envenomed political partisans and others, whose corns the Tribune has at times trod on, or whose baseness it has felt impelled to expose. Nor is it needful to claim, what no one pretends—that the Tribune is every thing that is just and excellent, and clear of every thing that is the reverse. There are spots on the sun perfect men, I take it, are rather a scared article, and perfect public journals are equally rare.

But, having long known the founder and leading editor of the Tribune—known him personally and thoroughly from the days of his boyhood, more than thirty years ago, to the present hour—having been a diligent reader of his paper from the start, and being tolerably conversant with the newspaper world in general—I believe I may safely say that there are not many larger hearted, more laborious or more useful men in any community than HORACE GREELEY, nor any public journal within the sphere of my knowledge which, as a whole, in point of editorial talent, just and noble aims, extensive circulation, and more extensive usefulness, can fairly compare with the N. Y. Tribune. The editorial force of the Tribune consists of Horace Greeley, C. A. Dana, J. S. Pike, C. T. Condon, Richard Hildreth, George Ripley, G. M. Snow, and several others who write occasionally. About 20 reporters are employed, and 16 regular correspondents, at Washington, Albany, Boston, San Francisco, London, Paris, etc., etc., and occasional correspondents at other points.

The type-setters employed in the office number 63; pressmen 24, proof-readers 4; in the publishing department 6 persons, including Cashier; mailing department 47; cost of presses and machinery in use including Hoe's 10 cylinder just erected—$63,000.

The average circulation of the Daily Tribune is 30,250, and the quantity of paper used in printing the daily, weekly semi-weekly, California and European editions, is about 734 reams per week, at a cost of over four thousand dollars. The actual circulation of the Weekly Tribune has been as high as 175,000; but I think the monetary revulsion has reduced it a little. The total expenses of the Tribune establishment are about $7,300 per week, being an aggregate of $380,000 a year.

This is a rapid outline of the elements and incidents of the N. Y. Tribune—the facts of which I have taken pains to procure from a reliable source, and which I send for the information of your readers, without solicitation or suggestion from any quarter.

There is a paucity of news items, of any public interest, occurring in the city. The great Charity Festival at the Crystal Palace exhibited more participants, by many thousands, than were ever before assembled in any building on any similar occasion, in this country. The Palace was one grand glare of light, from thirty thousand jets of gas; and the oceans of crinoline, seas of silk, and Amazon rivers of fancy dresses, of all conceivable styles, hues and ages,—the grand and marvellous display of glittering ornaments, and the rare and glowing array of youthful and womanly beauty, the splendor of military uniform, and the curious effect of music in that vast amphitheatre,—all together presented a scene quite unequalled in this country. A large sum was realized from the fair, but the supper was a great jumble the liquor-selling led to sun-dry disorders; and cloaks, shawls, &c., were lost, stolen, and exchanged ad infinitum.

Roses from Cuttings.

To the queries of A. Durkee, Windsor Co., Vt., we reply: Roses can be propagated by cuttings, but more successfully by layers when they branch sufficiently near the ground. To strike from cuttings, select wood of last year's growth, and plant in early Spring. The shoots should be prepared before the buds have swelled, cut into pieces eight or ten inches long, and planted in a moderately moist, loose soil. A slight hot bed heat is best for starting them in. The bottom heat, the loose yellow soil, and especially the glass covering facilitates their rooting. When planted in the open ground, only a small proportion of them usually live, unless the ground be deeply trenched, and the plants well supported.

A dozen Pawnee Indian warriors, with three of their chiefs, are in charge of Major Denison and had a war dance at the Astor House on Saturday night. There was a rush to see the performance—the original dancing, a war-dance, a平原舞, a social dance, and a mazurka. The Indians were well dressed in their feathers and jewelry. The dance was accompanied by savage songs and gestures.

which rather disturbed the nerves of some of the lady auditors, more especially as one of the "bronds," just about dangled his clothes off!

Our Legislature is hurrying through its accumulated business, preparatory to adjournment. The hundred days' limit of the session expires this week. The Metropolitan Police Law has failed in the Senate.

HAMBURG.

WASHINGTON, Saturday, April 10.

In the House of Representatives, yesterday, the motion to reconsider the vote by which the Deficiency Bill was rejected, being taken up and carried, the bill was finally passed by a vote of 110 to 97. At half past 2 o'clock, the death of the Hon. Thos. H. Benton being a motion by a member (at that time prematurely), the House adjourned until Monday. Immediately after the adjournment, before the members had left their seats, a rap of the Clerk's desk arrested the attention of the House, when a note addressed by Col. Benton to Senator Houston and the Hon. Geo. W. Jones, of Tenn., was read by the Clerk, amid perfect silence and intense interest. The substance of the note was a request by the writer that in the event of his death here, no notice should be taken of it in Congress, any notice by that body being contrary to his feelings and convictions long entertained. Col. Benton expired this morning at his residence on C. street, at 20 minutes past seven o'clock, in full possession of his mental faculties to the last moment, having kept at work on his "Abridgement of the Debates of Congress" up to Wednesday last.

It is expected that the Pacific Rail Road Bill will be the next principle subject of discussion in the Senate—and perhaps in the House, after a disposition of its pending business. Both public sentiment and Congressional policy now seem ready for the entertainment of this subject. The selection of a route seems now to be about the only point to be discussed and agreed upon, and this, fortunately bids fair to not become a partisan or sectional question. The Secretary of War recommends the Southern route, for the reason that the grades are lower, the climate milder, and the length of desert shorter than on any other route. The majority of the Select Committee of the Senate, however, have reported in favor of a central route. A northern route will also be proposed, from the head of Lake Superior to Puget Sound. But the advocates of this route will propose a bill, as they have heretofore done, furnishing equal facilities for three roads, leaving to the discretion of contractors the choice of routes, it being considered that their financial instincts would lead them to the adoption of the most practicable route for the first road.

The Fancy Ball of Mrs. Senator Gwin on Thursday night, came off to the perfect satisfaction of all parties. The fashionable society of the Metropolis, was nearly all there, besides a considerable number of guests from a distance. The President Secretaries, and Senators, by privilege, appeared in citizens dress. All the other guests to the number of several hundred, appeared in fancy costume, representing nearly all phases of human nature, and all periods of history.

SPECTATOR.

To Raise Extra Early Potatoes.

Cover the bottom of several shallow boxes with six inches of equal parts stable manure and loam, and put an early variety of potatoes over the surface two or three inches apart; then cover them with six inches of the compost. Nail slats or an open cover over the top, and bury in the side of a fermenting manure heap, the warmth of which will soon start the potatoes into growth. If the heat should be too great remove a portion of the manure from the top, and admit air inside the box. When the weather will allow planting out, remove the boxes, which will contain a mass of roots and whitish colored stalks. Leave them in the open air for a few days to harden off, and having watered them copiously, take out the potatoes with as much earth as possible undisturbed about the roots already formed, and transplant in rows. You will then have potatoes two or three weeks earlier than when planted at first in the open ground. The middle or latter part of March will be a proper season for putting them in the compost heap in this latitude.—Am. Agriculturist, March.

Roses from Cuttings.

To the queries of A. Durkee, Windsor Co., Vt., we reply: Roses can be propagated by cuttings, but more successfully by layers when they branch sufficiently near the ground. To strike from cuttings, select wood of last year's growth, and plant in early Spring. The shoots should be prepared before the buds have swelled, cut into pieces eight or ten inches long, and planted in a moderately moist, loose soil. When planted in the open ground, only a small proportion of them usually live, unless the ground be deeply trenched, and the plants well supported.

Major Denison has decided to withhold the keys from him till his skirts are cleared—if cleared they can be—and has locked up the office. Things are hence dreadfully at a stand in that quarter.

A dozen Pawnee Indian warriors, with three of their chiefs, are in charge of Major Denison and had a war dance at the Astor House on Saturday night. There was a rush to see the performance—the original dancing, a war-dance, a平原舞, a social dance, and a mazurka. The Indians were well dressed in their feathers and jewelry. The dance was accompanied by savage songs and gestures.

From the Boston Cultivator.

To My Infant.

Innocent babe! now calmly sleep Upon thy watchful mother's breast, Now close thine eyes and sweetly sleep, While angels round thy vigil keep.

What are thy dreams, sweet infant fair? Are they of Heaven, and angels there? Are they of pleasant days to come, Spent in a bright and happy home?

Thy dimpled hands together clasped, Are on thy snowy bosom pressed, While on thy lips a smile doth wreath, As softly falls the fragrant breath.

Thy mother fondly gazes now Upon thy fair and child-like brow; To Heaven she breathes a fervent prayer That God thy precious life would spare.

Innocent one! thou'rt free from sin; Thou'rt free from worldly care and pain, And mayst thou be as pure as now, When silver hairs rest on thy brow.

And when thy sight grows dim in death, Then mayst thou raise the eye of faith, And trust in God, to calm thy fears, Whilst thou dost leave this vale of tears!

ALPINE HAIR BALM.

Restoring Gray Hair to its original Color.

Warranted to cure Baldness, Scurf, Dandruff, Itching and all diseases of the skin. This Balm gives the scalp a new and healthy action; restores the coloring matter to the root of the hair, which passes through the hair and gives a natural color without the use of Hair Dye.

Keeps the hair from falling off.

Mr. Mason, Sir—I have found a Hair Restorative in your Alpine Balm, which has not merely changed the gray locks for their original, but has given them a glossy hue, which before they never had.

EREMIAH S. ROSS,

129 Wickenden street, Providence, May 20, 1857.

PROVIDENCE, July 30, 1857.

C. A. P. Mason.—Dear Sir—I am now using the Alpine Hair Balm, which I had of you, with most happy results. On the 30th of June last, my hair (which had been gray for more than six years) was fast falling off; but on the third application of the Balm it ceased falling, and is now firmly rooted, and very nearly its original color. By the use of one-tenth, I confidently expect a complete, permanent, luxuriant and original head of hair. If every gray-haired male would try it, they would soon become "living epistles, known and read of all men," as having used the Alpine Hair Balm.

JOHN F. TRECOTT,

TESTIMONY OF A LADY, OVER 60 YEARS OF AGE.

Mr. Mason, Sir—I write to inform you how pleased I am with your Alpine Hair Balm. My hair has been gray for a number of years, and I have been obliged to wear a front piece and cap; but have always found it difficult when having a bonnet on to keep the front piece from working back and showing the white hair. Finally I concluded I would try your Alpine Hair Balm; I used one bottle only and my hair has come back to its natural color, which was brown. My hair is now perfectly free from dandruff and is soft and glossy.

The following remedies are offered to the public as the best, most perfect, which medical science can afford. AYX's CARMANTO PILLS have been prepared with the utmost skill which the medical profession of this age possesses, and their effects show they have virtues which surpass any combination of medicines hitherto known.—Other preparations do more or less good; but this cures such dangerous complaints, as quick and so surely, as to prove an efficacy and a power to uproot disease beyond anything which men have known before. By removing the obstructions of the internal organs and stimulating them into healthy action, they renovate the fountains of life and vigor—health comes anew through the body, and the sick man is well again. They are adapted to disease only, for when taken by one in health they produce but little effect. This is the perfection of medicine. It is antagonistic to disease, and so noxious. Tender children may take them with impunity. If they are sick they will cure them; if they are well they will do them no harm.

Give them to some patient who has been prostrated with bilious complaint; see his count-up, tottering form straighten with strength again; see his listless, lost appetite return; see his clammy features blossom into health. Give them to some sufferer whose foul blood has burst out in acrobatic fits; his skin is covered with sores; who stands, or sits, or lies in anguish. He has been drenched inside and out with every poison which ingenuity could suggest. Give them to him whose angry humors have planted rheumatism in his joints and bones; more him, and he aches with pain; he too has been soaked through every muscle of his body with liniments and salves; give him these Pills to purify his blood; they may not cure him, for, alas! there are cases which no mortal power can reach; but mark, he walks with crutches now, and now he walks alone; they have cured him.

Have you the least serious symptoms of these disorders, they are the easier cured. Jaundice, Costiveness, Headache, Siderosis, Heartburn, Prol. Stomach, Nausea, Pain in the Bowels, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, King's Evil, Neuralgia, Gout, and kindred complaints, all arise from the derangements which these Pills rapidly cure. Take them perseveringly, and under the counsel, of a good Physician if you can; if not, take them judiciously, by such advice as we give you, and the increasing, dangerous diseases they cure, which affect so many millions of the human race, are cast out like the darts of old—they must burst in the brains and in the sea. Price 20 cents per box—6 boxes for $1. 20—d—Wm. S. PHILBRICK.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYX, Practica

Analyst Chemist, Lowell, Mass., and sold by all Druggists everywhere.
